

LPGA Tour Statement on the 2020 Honda LPGA Thailand and 2020 HSBC Women's World Championship

Due to the continued health concerns and recent advisories in some Asian countries that large-scale events should be cancelled or postponed as a result of the coronavirus, the LPGA and its partners have made the decision to cancel the 2020 Honda LPGA Thailand, which was scheduled to take place February 20-23 in Pattaya, Thailand, and the 2020 HSBC Women's World Championship, which was scheduled to take place February 27-March 1 in Singapore.

It is always a difficult decision to cancel events and the LPGA greatly appreciates the understanding and all the efforts made by our title sponsors (Honda and HSBC) as well as IMG to host incredible events for our players. The health and safety of our players, fans and everyone working on the event is always our highest priority. While we are disappointed that these tournaments will not take place this season, we look forward to returning to Asia soon.

Due to the continued health concerns and recent recommendations regarding the Coronavirus, we have taken the decision together with our tournament partners to cancel the 2020 Honda LPGA Thailand.

We are sorry for any inconvenience this may cause you and please be assured we are working with our ticketing partners to put a process in place to ensure tickets purchases are refunded to you as soon as possible.

We thank you for your support and patience while we put these processes in place.
